New York City Department of Environmental Protection moves its workforce remote in days with Nerdio

Challenge

When COVID-19 struck in 2020, the New York City Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) suddenly needed to enable secure remote connectivity for thousands of workers.

Solution

Wanting to connect over 2000 employees without slowing down Azure performance, NYC DEP's IT staff chose Nerdio Manager to facilitate the move.

Results

With Nerdio Manager, NYC DEP was able to quickly add thousands of users on the back end, completing what could have been a four-and-a-half-week process in three hours. They can also ensure that every device is updated and compliant, and apply conditional access policies, all from one platform.

Why customers love Nerdio

> We can stand up a new application with Azure services in 90 days versus one to two years, because we don't have to go buy a server. We no longer have to put in a requisition to get the capital.
